

Disclaimer

Non-fungible tokens (NFTs) are highly speculative and volatile assets. While Allowlisted has taken steps to ensure that projects listed are reputable and safe, users are advised to undertake their own research and proceed with caution. Allowlisted does not offer investment advice on any of the listed projects.

Any information provided on this website should not be considered as financial or investment advice, including all information about the featured projects. The information is provided as-is with no guarantees of any kind. We cannot confirm the claims or the trustworthiness of any of the regular, featured or sponsored projects. By using this information, you agree to not take Allowlisted.io responsible for the results of your investment decisions. Make sure to always do your own research, as any information found on this website should not be considered as financial advice.

We do not guarantee the accuracy of any information provided here. This fast-paced environment and any of the information provided might change at any time without any warning. Therefore, please make sure to verify all information (date, price, and everything else that can be relevant to you) from official project channels. Projects may change price, supply, sale date/time and/or any other information without us knowing and/or without us being able to update it accordingly.

Allowlisted does not endorse any project. Please ensure that you fully understand the risks involved, and that NFT is viewed as a collectible item, not an investment.